Italian printers' devices databases: from EDIT16 to SBN and not least MAR.T.E.

Dr. Marina Venier

(National Central Library of Rome, Cataloguing Department of the Early printed Book)

MON SINE LABOR.

The EDIT16 database, realized as part of the national Census of Italian 16th Century Editions project, aims at documenting the Italian editions printed during the 16th century and also to survey the related holdings at national level. It contains editions printed between 1501 and 1600 in Italy in any language, as well as those written in Italian language and printed abroad. Participating institutions currently include 1,571 Italian libraries, the State Library of the Republic of San Marino and several libraries belonging to the Vatican City, including the Vatican Apostolic Library.

On January 2015 the database contains:

- 67,711 bibliographic records, 27,973 of which with front-page images, colophons and other pages of interest
- □ 5,689 records related to publishers, printers, booksellers, etc., of which 2,600 refer to preferred form of names related to printers and 3,089 to their related variants. Publishers are supplied with biographical notes, bibliographical references, information on date and place of activity, addresses and/or emblems, and the devices used. They also contain bibliographical references and the forms of names documented both in reference sources and in the editions recorded in the database
- 2,520 publisher/printer devices. Records related to marks are supplied with a description of the main figurative symbolic elements in addition to indications on the relevant publishers, dates of use (both generic and concerning single publishers) and to any existing printed mottos. All marks are also supplied with images
- □ 3,946 links to digital copies
- □ 56,915 images, 49,567 of which are related to titles, 2,725 to marks and 4,623 to dedications.

SBN

The National Library Service (Servizio Bibliotecario Nazionale - SBN) is the network of Italian libraries promoted by the Ministry of Cultural Heritage and Activities and Tourism, with the cooperation of regional administrations and universities.

The libraries taking part in SBN are grouped together into local HUBS (POLI) including a variable number of libraries which manage all their services through automated procedures. The hubs are linked to the SBN Index (INDICE SBN) system, core of the network; this system, managed by ICCU, manages the collective catalogue of the publications acquired by the SBN libraries.

SBN

The database is increased online by libraries carrying out shared online and remote cataloguing through the dumping of the inserted data in accordance with the SBN-MARC protocol, thus augmenting the services at the users' disposal.

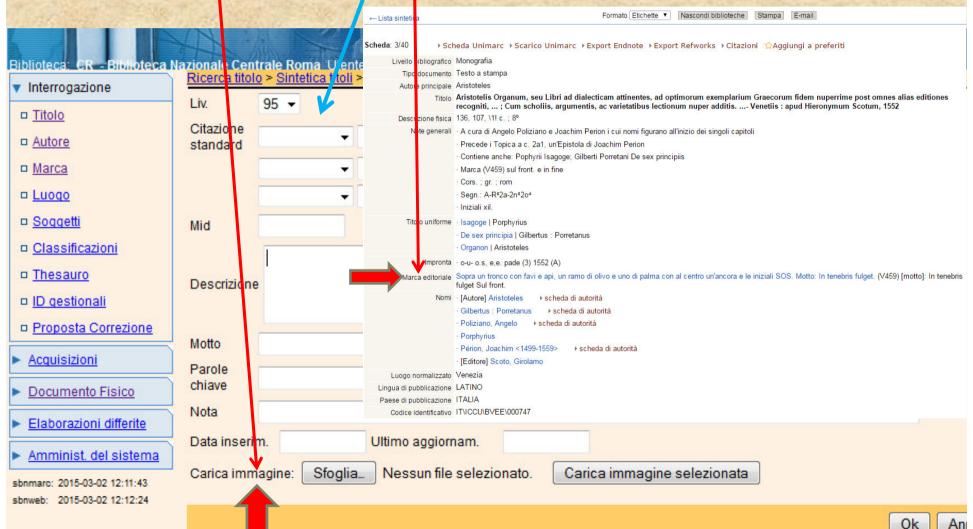

The index is currently being opened to non-SBN library systems requesting certification, and is being set up for a differentiated management of the participation in the National Library Service, according to different cooperation levels: data capture only, location of the library own holdings, addition of new cataloguing descriptions, online correction of information through the direct interface with the Index.

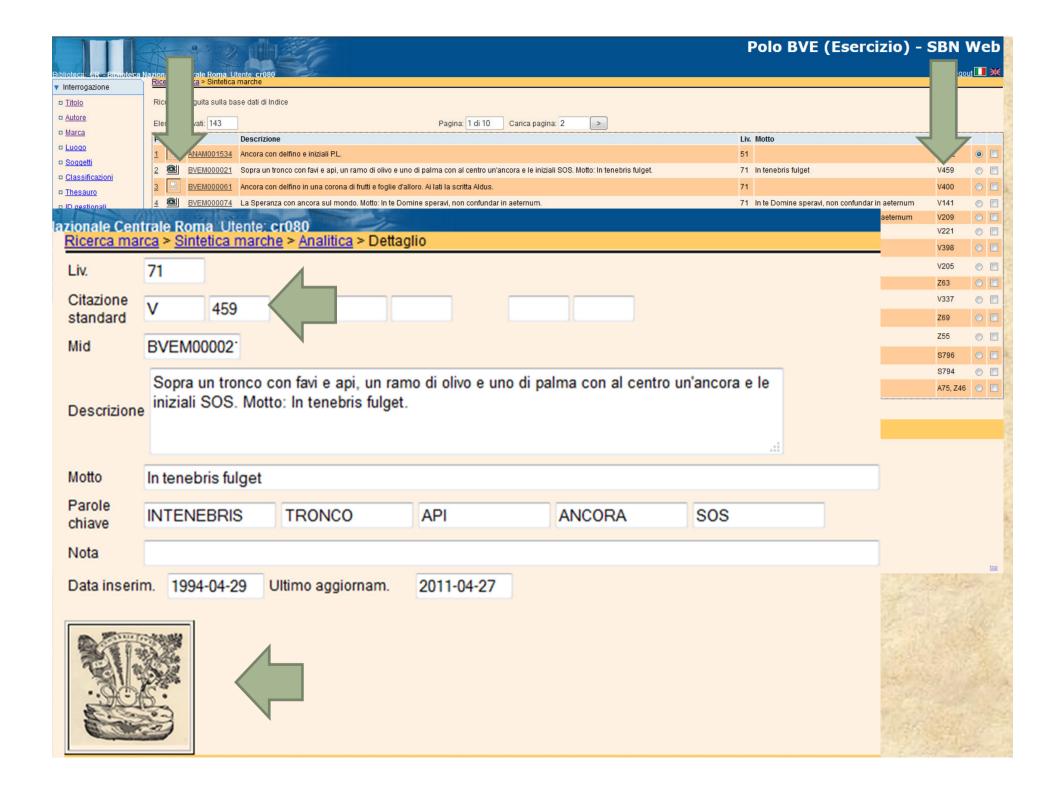

SBN

In the union catalogue of the SBN, the database for early printed material contains records for editions from the early days of printing up to 1830.

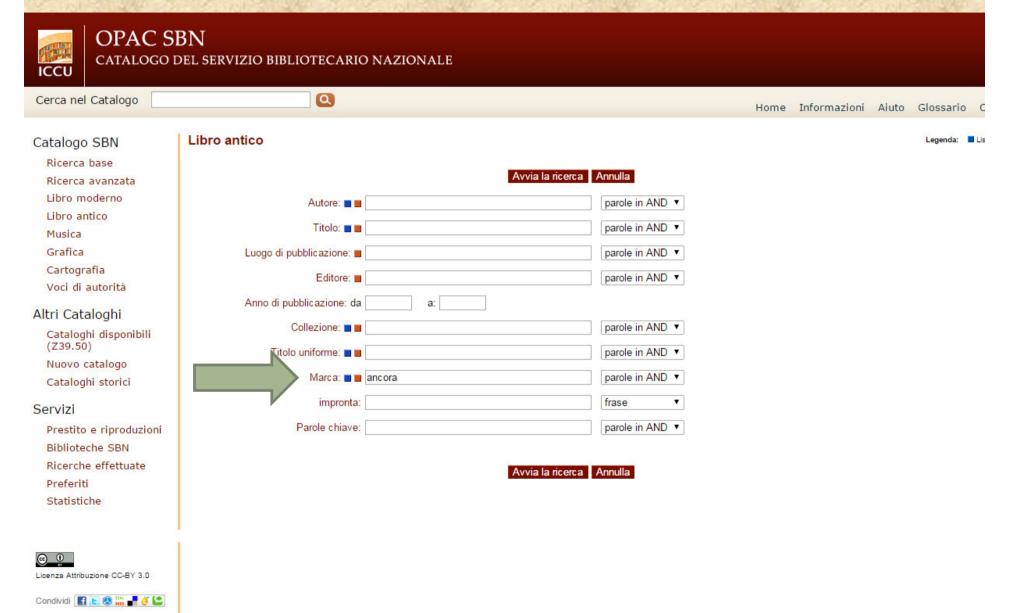

In January 2015, it contained 870.662 titles.

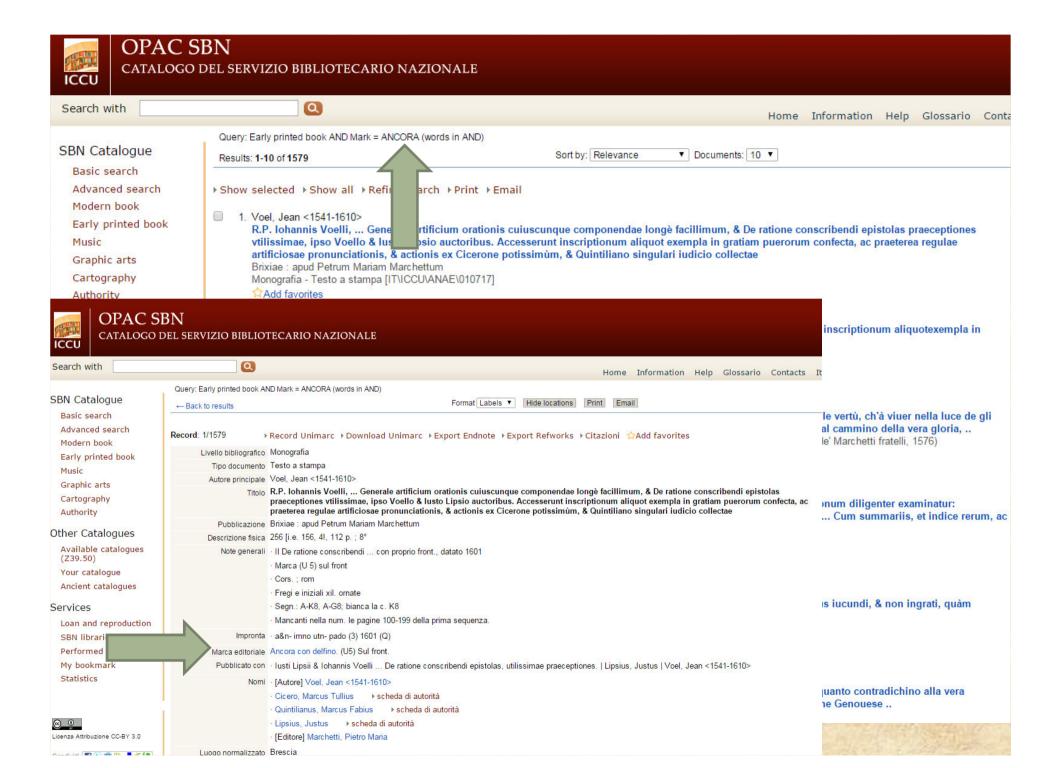

In the DB is possible to create records of the printers' or publishers' devices with linked image and link it to the bibliographical record

In the search options, the parameter Mark makes it possible to select publications by a given publisher over a certain period, through description of the image, motto - if present – and identification code for the mark.

In order to offer an up-to-date tool, MAR.T.E. supports and encourages the cooperation.

There are two different ways of participation:

- · By proposing the introduction of new Cards.
- · By modifying or increasing the Cards already in.

To take part into the cataloguing in MAR.T.E., you have to be in possession of a Password that you will get after your Registration.

Introduction of new Cards

From the Starting page, choose Cataloguing. You'll get a screen page in which you have to fulfil some mandatory fields:

- User Name and Password, complying with capital letters.
- Name of the Printer, Publisher, etc. in a normalized form.
- The first Keyword or, if they exist, the first ten types of the Motto, without spaces.
- The dimensions of the Device, frame included, maximum height and breadth in millimetres.
- The edition (Author, Title, Data of the publication area) from which comes the Device.
- The Image File of the whole title page, which can be included by pressing the key on the right. The format is JPEG.

Modifying or Increasing already existing Cards.

By the function Query, you can search the database. When you get the results, you can press the key Modify. You'll have the possibility to correct or increase the existing data.

Insertions and modifications will be inputted in the database after having been checked.
